

East West Players Actors Conservatory Studio Lab Project presents:

The Marriage of Cruz & Chu

Our Big, Fat, Filipino-Chinese Wedding Banquet

Romeo Cruz & Jennifer Chu request the honor of your presence to their wedding!

Saturday, July 11th, 2009

6 o'clock in the evening (seating at 6:15 pm, ceremony starts at 7 pm)

Miyako Hotel Los Angeles
328 East 1st Street, Los Angeles, CA 90012

East West Players' Actors Conservatory is pleased to present its annual Studio Lab Project - a madcap interactive dinner theatre show! Join Romeo and Jenny for a wedding and reception where everything that can go wrong, does. Dine and mingle with crazy in-laws, offbeat bridesmaids and groomsmen, ex-boyfriends and less-than-polite guests. Ceremonial malfunctions, Asian culture clash, family secrets, barongs and cheongsams, drunk wedding dedications, unexpected romances, musical numbers and more!

Admission: ALL SEATS $25 each

Includes dinner - Mama Cruz won't let you leave hungry!
No Host Bar located across from the banquet room.

Dress Attire: CALIFORNIA CASUAL

Limited seating - first come first served- no saving of seats!
People coming as a group must all be present before being seated.

Tickets may be purchased by going to:

www.eastwestplayers.org/arts_education/conservatory.htm

Please note there is an additional $2.00 service fee when ordering by credit card.

Proceeds go to supporting the Actors Conservatory and East West Players' educational programs. The goal of the Studio Lab Project is to give students who have been studying with the program for a minimum of one year the opportunity to use their newly learned performance skills before a live audience and to create an environment that simulates a professional theatre process.
